

“If kids come to us from strong, healthy, functioning families, it makes our job easier. If they do not come to us from strong, healthy, functioning families, it makes our job more important.”

— Barbara Coloroso

Children aging out from childcare institutions after the age of 18 years are vulnerable to factors like unemployment, insecurity, low self-esteem, exploitations, psychological stress, physical and mental illness like depression and anxiety, disruption in education, homelessness, dependency and a lot of other adverse factors. These children form one of the most vulnerable groups in our society, and both government and wider society, have a moral obligation to give them the support they need as they make transition to adulthood and independent living. Unless they are assisted in key matters like education, employment, finance, accommodation, health care, the process of their transition from protected institutional care to independent adulthood and life thereafter, may get derailed. We have to ensure that these children are not left alone after completion of their stay in institutions but are assisted in their social re-integration.

We understand that our children due to various challenging circumstances miss out on the opportunities of completing their education or striving for higher education. But that is no reason for children to lose their chance at financial independence. All kinds of work is worship and that we as a society must strive harder to encourage our young adults to not let those setbacks set them back by missing out on building their careers. We aim at linking the care leavers (18 years of age and above) with different service/training providing agencies/institutions for livelihood support by means of job placement. Further, we also aim at providing information about academic institutions for various courses to pursue higher studies as per their knowledge, ability, skill, education and area of interest.

This compendium prepared by Sanyog with support from UNICEF has made a preliminary attempt to gather some possible career options and opportunities that such children, regardless of their education may avail. This shall be updated from time to time with inclusion of more service providing agencies. Through this initiative, we aim at reaching out to maximum numbers of children and young adults leaving care to empower them with the various career opportunities available for them in and outside of Odisha in accordance to their skill-set. This is an overview of a wide range of information about facilities for education and scholarships, skill training for job placement and self employment, opportunities for employment based on vacancies, and important government web portals, etc. In this compendium, we intend to disseminate and educate our targeted age groups, mainly young adults and care leavers to help themselves make the right decisions and make informed career choices.
